THREAT TO SUE N. H. DIRECTORS

Minority Stockholders Want Money Returned to Treasury of Road.

Boston, June 8.—Whether suit will be brought against the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad to recover losses sustained by the Boston and Maine railroad under the New Haven financing and management depends upon the action of the legislature, according to a statement made last night by Sherman L. Whipple, attorney for certain minority stockholders of the Boston and Maine.

Mr. Whipple said the action would be withheld until the legislature had determined whether to approve or condemn the agreement between the New Haven directors and the department of justice. He added:

"My clients seek the return to the New Haven treasury of the money taken from it by the directors. I shall first ask the directors to return the money without appealing to the courts; then if they refuse, which is the probable conjecture, we will go into court. My clients want the department of justice to make it impossible for any more funds to be taken from the New Haven treasury and further, they want what has been taken returned."

"They demand that the government or state compel the directors to satisfy the losses and not the minority stockholders."

AMERICAN PEACE PLAN SUBMITTED

Calls for New Government in Mexico
With Neutral Head.—Must be Approved by Rebels

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 9.—The mediators announced last night that they would make public today all the correspondence that has passed between them and General Carranza or his agents. No explanation was made of the decision to give out the several notes, beyond the brief statement that the mediators believe the time has come to give the public the information they contain.

It is understood that the mediators feel that they have allowed enough time for general Carranza to make reply to the note which they dispatched last Tuesday to Rafael Zubaran, constitutionalist representative in Washington.

With the publication of the correspondence it is declared that the South American diplomats personally are inclined to look on their efforts to have the Constitutionalist send delegates as at an end. They will consider the incident closed unless General Carranza in his answer should agree to an armistice.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 8.—The United States government through Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann today presented to the three South American mediators, a complete plan for the pacification of Mexico.

It is the same in principle as that presented by the mediators and already agreed to by the Huerta government.

It contemplates establishment at the earliest date practicable of a new provisional government in Mexico. City which would conduct general elections for the permanent government. The plan includes several counter proposals of which the Huerta delegates will be advised tomorrow.

From mediators themselves it is

EXCHANGE OF COURTESIES

Rear Admiral Rogers Retains Pleasant Recollections of Our City and Its Veterans.

The following correspondence that Storer Post, No. 1, G. A. R., and Rear Admiral Charles C. Rogers, U. S. N., retired, is self explanatory:

Headquarters Storer Post, No. 1
Portsmouth, May 6, 1911.

Sir: The adjutant of Storer Post, No. 1, in behalf of himself and the officers and comrades of the above organization named, takes this opportunity to extend the sincere congratulations for your well deserved promotion and while it is most gratifying, yet it must deprive us of your genial presence among your many friends in this "Old City by the Sea," and permit me, my dear sir, to say that no firmer or more steadfast friends can be named than the comrades of the "Boys of '61 to '66" as represented by Storer Post, No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic; you have endeavored yourself to them, by the many courtesies and encouraging words received since your detail at this naval station; while this tribute is merely a token of a personal nature, yet I know that I voice the unanimous wish of my comrades. Owing to your immediate departure, I feared it might occur before another meeting of the Post, hence this communication. With highest regard and esteem, I am

Sincerely yours,
M. H. BELLEJA,
Adjutant Storer Post, No. 1, G. A. R.
To Rear Admiral Charles C. Rogers,
United States Navy.

Washington, May 11, 1914.

My Dear Mr. Belleja—Your very kind letter in behalf of yourself and of Storer Post, No. 1, has just been received, and I hasten to express my thanks for the congratulations over my promotion and the generous sentiments apropos of my retirement. I regretted exceedingly that health interest required my expediting the transfer of the command and my return to the physician's care; otherwise it would have been my pleasure to take personal leave of the good friends of Storer Post and of the city of Portsmouth.

The relations with the noble veterans and defenders of the country were ever a pleasure to me, not only because of their personality but also because of the great principle they represent and their great deeds and example. The annual assembly in May is a remarkable object lesson to the youth of our land, indeed to all citizens of whatever age.

Your city will ever hold a warm place in the affection of each of my family; and we hope that the future holds in store, as opportunity affords, a renewal of acquaintance and friendship. It would be a sorrow to each of us if we felt that it did not.

With my highest and most cordial regards to the members of Storer Post and to you both personally and as adjutant, believe me ever

Faithfully yours,
CHARLES C. ROGERS,
Rear Admiral, U. S. Navy, Retired.

FLAG DAY AT MANCHESTER

Portsmouth Will Send a Large Representation to Take Part in the Event

Portsmouth will send a large delegation to Manchester to take part in the Flag day observance on Monday next. A special train will leave here at 6.10 for the accommodation of the First Company, C. A. C., and the other three companies of the coast guard. Provisions have also been made for the members of Lucius Company, P. R. C. P., Captain John S. Cull, to go on this train.

Portsmouth Lodge, B. P. O. E., is planning to send a good sized delegation, which will go on the special train with the members of Dover Lodge, which will be run via this city.

Many of our citizens are planning to visit Manchester on this occasion and will make the trip on the regular train which leaves here at 8.44 o'clock.

Whatever doubts may have been entertained about the presence of the president in Manchester are now dispelled. Nothing, apparently, can mar the plans for the Flag day celebration, and Manchester and the entire state is now looking forward to the greatest day and the greatest patriotic outburst in the history of the commonwealth.

There will be thousands of marchers, bands brought from every corner of this and other states, a monster banquet which is already being planned for and under way, one of the greatest displays of fireworks the city or state has ever seen, a flag raising with speeches by the chief of the nation and other noted public men, and concerts in all parts of the city and finally as the grand march of the presence of the president himself.

The fireworks display will be given simultaneously in two sections of the city which are to be named later, but this much has been decided. One-half of the display will be given at some point of vantage in West Manchester or McGregorville, while the remainder will be set off at a point on the east side of the river, so that both Manchester proper and West Manchester will be included in the scope of the day's activities. There will be band concerts at both points.

The general orders regarding the parade, its route, the number of divisions, place of review by the president, the order of formation, the march of each division and the staffs of the chief marshal and the division marshals are expected to be issued by Adjutant General Herbert E. Tuthery by Thursday.

THAW'S FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

Reaches Supreme Court and Decision Is Expected Before Adjournment.

Washington, June 8.—Harry K. Thaw's fight for freedom reached the supreme court of the United States today, when former governor Stone of Pennsylvania as counsel, asked for his release on bail, pending a final decision of the proceedings by which the state of New York seeks to retract the noted prisoner to Matteawan from his refuge in New Hampshire.

Chief Justice White gave representatives of New York until Friday to file a brief in opposition to Thaw's release and a decision may be given next Monday when the supreme court will conclude its work for the term and adjourn until fall.

The supreme court rules provide for bail in such cases and Justice Aldrich of the federal court of New Hampshire who gave the favorable decision in Thaw's habeas corpus proceedings announced in his decision that he was not sure he ought to deny a release on bail, but would present the matter to the supreme court.

Mr. Stone set forth in his petition that his client was needed in court in Pennsylvania to testify in the settlement of his father's estate.

Portsmouth Lodge, No. 97, B. P. O. E., are talking of making the trip to Manchester for the Flag day celebration, going by special train and accompanied by a band.

MORE PAY GRANTED TRAINMEN

New Schedule Signed by Committee and Dates Back to Oct. 1913

It is understood in railroad circles that the arbitration committee and the representatives of the passenger and freight trainmen who have been in session many times for the past six months, have come to an agreement on the wage schedule and that it was signed on Saturday last. According to the report the conductors and the rear brakemen, known as the flagman, get an increase, while the pay of the middle brakemen and baggage-master remain the same with a change in mileage basis for their benefit. One hundred and fifty-nine miles or less will be a day's work for a brakeman, and 160 or less for baggage-master. Conductors are said to have got an increase of 30 cents per day additional with 3 cents per hour added to the overtime schedule making it 45 cents per hour instead of 42 cents.

In regard to overtime work in the new schedule the men are paid for what they actually earn. In the past if a man worked 29 minutes he received no extra pay; if he worked 31 minutes he got pay for one hour. The new agreement affects the Boston and Maine, Boston and Albany, New Haven and Maine Central.

CLEARY-JOHNSON

A very pretty home wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, June 3rd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson, Blue Ridge Farm, Greenland, when their only daughter, Helen Willey was united in marriage to William Otis Cleary of Portsmouth.

The rooms were prettily and effectively decorated with hennocks, bridal wreath, white lilies and potted plants. The ceremony, which took place at 3 o'clock was performed by Rev. Irving Barnes of Portsmouth, the Episcopal service being used, and the bride being given away by her father. She was attended by Miss Ruth Anderson of Portsmouth as bridesmaid, who wore pink silk with shadow lace, and carried fawn-colored pinks. Mr. William Crocker of Cambridge, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Little Miss Cleary, sister of the groom, was flower girl, strewn the pathway of the happy couple with beautiful flowers as they entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Mauda Crocker.

The bride, who is a beautiful brunette, looked charming in a gown of white silk with garniture of lace and chiffon. Her veil was of tulle caught with lilies of the valley. She

MORLEY BUTTON CO. DEFEAT THE P. A. C.

The Morley Button Co., got on the right side of the percentage table in their game last evening in the Sunset League schedule by winning from the P. A. C. in a good game. Driscoll was the whole team for the Morleys for he did not allow a single hit, pitched only one man, hit another and struck out six. He was pitching in fine form and got good support with the exception of the fifth, and a long fly that Grant dropped in center. Grant, another of the Riverside team of last year, has joined the Morleys and he will add to the outfield.

Leary pitched good enough ball, but two long drives on in the first and in the fourth which got by the outfielders were costly. It was a good game with some fast plays, the story of M. Howard and Able's hit over second base was a feature play.

The Morleys scored their first run when Able hit through first and second and Bill Woods allowed the ball to get through him and Able reached third from where he scored on McDonald's grounder to Howard, who fumbled for a second, but returned McDonald at first. They did not score again until the fourth when W. Howard drew a pass but was forced at second on Grant's grounder to M. Howard, and it was a close attempt at a double play as it looked as though the ball beat Paul to first. Moran hit to Leary who struck McDonald and in the back in throwing to first and with the two men on Grant hit a hard grounder through third and short and Tom Lynskey allowed it to get through him and before it was recovered Grant circled the bases, scoring three runs. The P. A. C. scored their lone run in the fifth when Lynskey reached first when Paul dropped McDonald's throw he was advanced on C. Brackett, being passed and went to third when W. Woods grounded to Hantoon who retired him at first. Leary hit to Hantoon who with McDonald ran Brackett down between second and third, giving Lynskey a chance to score.

The Game in Detail

FIRST INNING

The Morleys won the toss and took the field and W. Brackett, the first man up, flied to Grant in center. R. Brackett followed suit and Grant dropped the ball, Ralph going to second, and stole third for Driscoll struck out. M. Howard and Newkirk.

Able started to right and when the ball got by Woods he continued to third. McDonald grounded to M. Howard who fumbled for a second and Able scored, but McDonald was retired at first. Grant flied to Woods, Hantoon drew a pass but W. Howard retired the side with a fly to his brother back of second. One run.

SECOND INNING

Trueman was hit and was sacrificed to second by Lynskey. C. Brackett was thrown out by Able at first and Trueman moved up to third, but he died there as Bill Woods was called out on strikes.

Paul singled to center, but was forced at second on Morgan's grounder, Leary to Brackett, who tried for a double, but Moran beat it out. Grant grounded to M. Howard who fumbled, Driscoll was out on a foul fly to C.

Brackett and Able was thrown out by M. Howard to Newkirk.

THIRD INNING

It was in order for the P. A. C. Leary was called out on strikes, Bill Brackett pushed up a high foul fly that Pratt made a fine catch of, and R. Brackett was thrown out by Able. McDonald was thrown out by Leary and Pratt, Hantoon, Newkirk via Bill Brackett.

FOURTH INNING

M. Howard fanned, Newkirk gave Driscoll a high fly and Trueman struck out.

Howard drew a pass, but was forced at second on Grant's grounder to M. Howard to W. Brackett, a double was attempted but Bunker said that Paul beat the ball out, Moran hit to Leary who struck Able in the back and he was safe. Grant singled through short and the ball went through Lynskey and Grant chased two runs in ahead of himself. Driscoll flied to Newkirk and Able hit over second that M. Howard made a great stop of but could not field it. McDonald retired the side with a foul fly to C. Brackett, Three runs.

FIFTH INNING

Lynskey grounded to McDonald, but Paul dropped the throw and Tom was safe, he advanced when C. Brackett waited for four bad ones and he advanced to third when Hantoon chose to retire W. Woods at first. Leary grounded to Hantoon who caught C. Brackett off second and ran him down. McDonald getting the out, but Lynskey scored. W. Brackett ended the game with a high fly over short that Hantoon reached.

INTERNATIONAL POLO MATCH POSTPONED

New York, June 8. The first match of the international polo series will not be played today. At a meeting of the international committee, this noon, it was decided that, on account of the injury which Captain Leslie St. Clair Cheape sustained in yesterday's practice, and other handicaps which the British team has suffered, the only fair thing was to postpone the first engagement until Saturday, June 13.

The initiative in the postponement was taken by the polo committee after that body had received a report regarding the injury to Captain Cheape, English challenge four. The committee prepared the following statement which was issued by Chairman H. L. Herbert of the Polo Association.

"owing to the fact that Captain Cheape of the English team injured his eye very badly yesterday it has been decided to postpone the game scheduled for tomorrow until Saturday, June 13, when the first game of the series will be played at four o'clock."

It is said that several of the members of the American team after seeing the extent of Captain Cheape's injuries suggested that the game be postponed, especially a view of Dr. Lanes' report, after examining Captain Cheape, that the English player's nose was not broken, but the cartilage was dislocated. In addition the flying polo ball cut a deep gash under Captain Cheape's eye and the force of the blow closed the eye so tightly that it will be at least twenty-four hours before it will be possible for him to see at all clearly.

Mr. Herbert said that the committee has not had time to consider the question of the date of the second game, but it is probable that it will be played Tuesday, June 16. This will give the ponies and players the customary three days' rest between the matches.

The postponement was the cause of great regret among polo enthusiasts, who have gathered here from all ends of the United States and from many of the foreign countries. It necessi-

RESCUED WHEN HOPE WAS GONE BY FISHERMEN

Gloucester, June 8.--Last Thursday evening Capt. W. O. Perry and four others of the Boston schooner Annie R. Lewis of Boston were in an open boat 25 miles off Cape Sable, being driven rapidly to sea. A northwest gale was blowing and the sea running high. The men had been buffeted about 14 hours and were water soaked and chilled to the bone. Night was fast closing in and shutting out hope; only a miracle could save them.

Down the coast hawling along in the teeth of the gale came the stately schooner Monitor, Capt. George F. Farnham, bound home on a last voyage. Early in the morning the force of the gale had blown away the jumbo, a big jib, otherwise the Monitor would have been miles away from where she was at the time. Had she not arrived at the time she did, Capt. Perry and his companions would almost surely have perished.

The Lewis, a three-masted schooner, loaded with fish at Bridgewater, N. S., up the La Haye River and set to sea Wednesday morning. Just as they were about to start, the northwest gale broke furiously. The Lewis, deck and hull alike, rolled heavily, the cargo shifting. The sea made clean beaches over her. About five o'clock she listed heavily to port, then came back to starboard, settling on her beam ends. At this, the men lowered the long boat from the stern davits and jumped in, Capt. Perry being the last to leave.

The crew took some of their effects but the captain saved only his chronometer.

For 14 hours the men worked valiantly to keep their boat afloat in the teeth of the gale and at the end of that endurance test were in a state of collapse. No sail was in sight until the Monitor just before daylight came along, bravely waving red, white and blue, they attracted attention of the green-eyed Gloucester fishermen.

Capt. Perry bore down and picked up the men who had to be hoisted over the side. They were clothed, warmed and fed as only a Gloucester fisherman can perform these rites for his own kind.

"Don't forget to speak the best you know about the treatment Capt. Perry and his crew gave us" was the earnest injunction of these men to the newspapermen. Gratitude was stamped all through this request.

The Monitor arrived here this morning. Capt. Perry went to United States Shipping Commissioner McDonald who took the men in charge.

Capt. Perry comes from Portland. His mate is Louis Kaffa of Tannum. The crew are colored men. Henry Montero of Cooks Island Pacific Ocean; John Montero no relation to Henry of Cape Verde and Abraham Gardner of Nassau who makes his home in Brooklyn.

The cargo was shipped by the Davidson Lumber Company of La Haye for New Haven and Capt. Perry thinks it was insured.

The Lewis was a three-master built at Buckport Me. in 1873 216 gross and 171 net tons and was owned by Rogers & Webb of Boston. Capt. Perry says she was not insured. When last seen she had turned turtle.

Daily Mail Says Sluggishness in Light Breeze is the Cause

London, June 8.--In an article today on Shamrock IV, the Daily Mail's yachting expert remarks that the yacht is rather sluggish in light airs, and he believes that in view of the fact that this sort of weather is likely to be experienced in the races off Sandy Hook, Charles Nicholson, the designer, will give Shamrock IV more sail and reduce her displacement by removing lead from her keel. The Daily Mail's expert adds that in a stiff breeze the yacht looks like a certain winner.

HONOR ROLL AT VERA
CRUZ MADE PUBLIC

Washington, June 8.--Tales of fighting heroism, of enlisted men fighting on while suffering from serious wounds, of rescuing wounded comrades under a vicious fire, of standing up in the midst of flying bullets, of waggling signals and carrying messages of vital importance, are told in the report which Rear Admiral Decker sent to the Navy Department and given out today describing the fighting at Vera Cruz in April. Eleven enlisted men of the Navy are recommended for medals of honor. They are:

H. N. Nickerson, Wheeling, W. Va. boatwain's mate, second class, battleship Utah; Was slightly wounded three times, and after first aid bandages had been applied he took charge of a squad that built an advanced barricade under fire. Here he was again wounded three times, two shots striking his left leg above and below the knee. He was then carried to the rear, and has since had his leg amputated close to the hip.

A. De Somer, Milwaukee, chief turret captain battleship Utah; He was placed in charge of a small squad of men and was subject to a severe fire from the buildings, but after several hours of well directed fire he succeeded in driving the enemy back. When a general advance began he was sent ahead to silence fire from snipers. Later, when two sections of artillery were sent to join Captain Anderson's command, he performed similar services, and was almost continually under direct fire from snipers.

John G. Barker, Canton, O., boatwain's mate, battleship Florida; When Ensign G. M. Lowry, first company, Florida Battalion, called for volunteers to go into an alleyway between the customhouse and an open warehouse down which a heavy fire was being directed by the enemy, Barker responded with four others and dislodged the enemy. J. P. Schumacher, ex-coxswain, one of the volunteers, was killed. Previous to this time Barker occupied a position from which he with accuracy and coolness killed the crew of a Mexican machine gun, operating in front of the Naval Academy.

H. C. Bessley, Newark, O., and L. V. Stinet, both seamen of the battleship Florida, were the other two volunteers under Ensign Lowry.

These four men from the battleship Florida were in the signal squad under Ensign McInnes. They were stationed on the roof of the Terminal Hotel at sunset and returned there at daylight, on this roof and near them a marine was killed, an electrician, three ears, was wounded and one member of the party (Nordseick) was wounded. Notwithstanding the constant fire in which they were subjected they were not diverted from keeping up their signal and efficient communication by signals with the Pacific.

Commendation for Others.

Commendation was also extended to the following men:

N. Dustrup, Brooklyn, chief turret captain, battleship Utah. He was in command of the second section of the third company. For several hours he was in charge of an advanced barricade under a heavy fire and displayed ability as a leader of men by his marked composure and courage.

B. Burton, New York city, boatwain's mate, second class, battleship Utah, With M. Hutchinson, seaman, he occupied an advanced position exposed to the fire from the old market and hotel buildings while awaiting the southwardward of the custom house mail ordered to withdraw.

P. E. Norman, Teller, N. J., ex-coxswain, battleship Utah, With R. E. England and Copeland and two or three other men he occupied a position on the rear of the roof of the Hotel Mexico that was under a severe fire from the church tower of Olegencia and Universal Hotel, and tower of the Municipal Building. Three men were wounded there.

J. Dermody, Brooklyn, boatwain's mate, second class, battleship Utah. He led a squad to the roof of the custom house and silenced the fire from the roof of the Hotel Oriente and the hotel at that block.

R. A. Ruyter, Perry, N. Y., and D. Cameron, Brooklyn, were members of the machine gun crew under E. Wertman, gunner's mate, that assisted in operating the gun under heavy and continuous fire.

"During the two days action Captain H. McInnes, U. S. N., Lieutenant G. M. Curtis, U. S. N., Lieutenant P. J. Fletcher, U. S. N., were under fire and were eminent and conspicuous in the performance of their duties.

Goettingen, Ger., June 8.--The Society for Investigating the Interior Structure of the Earth today declares it has succeeded in discovering by means of wireless telegraphy subterranean springs and ore deposits. It states that it also has ascertained their depth by the use of electrical waves applied according to the method invented by Professor Leimbach of this city. Professor Leimbach, on March 23, 1914, used the wireless telegraphy for underground communication between the potash mines in the Northern Harz Mountains when he sent messages a distance of nearly a mile and a half at a level of 1000 feet below the surface.

Fair Treatment for Railroads.

Congress has decided that the railroads must be paid more for carrying the mails, and in view of the great increase in mail matter since the introduction of the parcel post, all fair-minded men will agree that some increase in compensation is in order.

And in bringing about the readjustment an important change will be made. Heretofore the pay of railroads for carrying mails has been based on weight, but hereafter it is to be determined by the car space occupied. Compensation will be fixed for cars, half cars and quarter cars, and the rate will be a certain amount per mile. This seems like a fair and equitable arrangement, notwithstanding the fact that the roads would prefer the retention of most of the features of the old plan.

Since the introduction of the parcel post many of the roads have claimed that they were losing money on their mail contracts, but this is denied by the postal authorities, who assert that in some cases they were paid too much before. However this may be, the new arrangement should be made fair to the railroads and just to the government. The pay for carrying the mails should not be exorbitant, nor should the railroads be compelled to perform a service for which they are not adequately compensated. A square deal is what is called for, and this is what Congress will attempt to provide.

The aggregate annual cost of carrying the mails is expected under the new schedule to be about $10,000,000 greater than at present. The roads now receive about $51,000,000 a year, exclusive of a slight increase for carrying parcel post matter, and under the new arrangement the payments will be in the neighborhood of $60,000,000.

That is a large amount of money, but the amount of work to be done is large and the railroad is as worthy of its hire as any other laborer. The people are willing to pay adequately for this service, which is one of vast importance to all classes, and Congress is taking a proper step in bringing about a readjustment which will be fair and just to all. It was inevitable that with the development of the parcel post there would have to be a readjustment in the matter of pay, and it is well that the subject is to receive the attention it deserves. The railroads are entitled to fair treatment in this matter, and that they will receive.

It is announced that the Empress of Ireland will not be raised from the bottom of the St. Lawrence river, and it remains to be seen how many of the 800 bodies that went down with the steamer and how much of her valuable cargo will be recovered by divers. The depth at which the vessel lies will prove a serious obstacle to the work of recovery.

A Russian is building an aeroplane designed to carry sixty passengers. This seems like an ambitious undertaking, but perhaps it will fulfill its mission as well as some that are made to carry only one or two. If it doesn't there will be a startling piece of news some day, provided sixty persons can be found willing to take their chances.

A large dumping ground in East Boston has been covered with soil and converted into a profitable vegetable garden. There are spots in almost every city and town where great improvements could be made at small cost, and citizens would do well to give them their attention.

Now it is claimed that many of the British suffragettes are doing their fiendish work for pay rather than love for the cause, being hired and egged on by women "higher up." This puts even a worse face on the situation than it has worn hitherto.

Strict conformity to Spanish law will be observed at the marriage of Roosevelt's son in Madrid. Which will be very different from the conditions prevailing when the elder Roosevelt was in Cuba at the head of the Rough Riders.

There ought to be no trouble with the battleship program if the government can work off its "junks" on foreign countries as fast as it wants to build new dreadnoughts. Greece is now a prospective customer for two old-timers.

The season of clambakes is again at hand. Fortunately this is a treat that is not confined to the coast, although it is generally conceded that they prepare and serve them there a little better than they do inland.

The British "arsonettes" one New York paper calls them. The term is not only appropriate, but affords relief from one that has become somewhat tiresome through the developments of the last few years.

North Carolina sits down hard on woman's suffrage, a cause which in this country will have to find most of its support outside of the southern states, for reasons well understood.

Shamrock IV, with a sailspread of 10,000 square feet will be a sight to behold whether she lifts the cup or not.

President Wilson Deplores War, but Eulogizes Those Who Die as Heroes

President Wilson is shown here speaking at the dedication of the monument to Confederate dead at Arlington cemetery, Washington. On the stand with the president were many notables. Being a southerner by birth, the president spoke with especial feeling in eulogy of those who lost their life in the great civil war. He deplored war, but said those of the south who fell in battle did so for a cause that they considered just.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The Psychology of Business Depression.

"I heard a very interesting preacher say several months ago, in preaching upon the sequence of the petitions in the Lord's Prayer, that it was significant that our Saviour's first petition was 'Give us this day our daily bread,' for no man can rationally live, worship or love his neighbor on an empty stomach; and if he is in doubt where the food is to come from, if he fears he will be without work and sustenance, it is impossible that he should have a rational attitude toward the life of the community or toward his own life."—Woodrow Wilson, from an address May, 1912, to the N. Y. Economic Club.

We wonder if President Wilson has forgotten this view of things that Woodrow Wilson entertained when in May, 1912, he was looking forward to the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. He had then no apparent notion that business depression was merely psychological, but he was earnest in his purpose to give it a larger freedom. For a whole year he has kept Congress at work regulating the affairs of trade which under the administration has constantly slackened with shorter hours of employment for the wage earner and in many cases no hours. Real apprehension exists among employers where their daily bread is to come from in the near future, and as Woodrow Wilson truly said two years ago: "If he fears that he will be without work and sustenance, it is impossible that he should have a rational view toward the life of the community or toward his own life."

To the manufacturer and the merchant who are now appealing to him to pause for a little in his plan for running business from Washington that laws already passed may be digested and labor kept employed, President Wilson says that business depression is merely a state of mind and that it would not exist if business men would have faith in him and Bryan as the arbiters of trade. What the President says to the sick patient already exhausted by strange nostrums freely administered is that it is not rest that you need but more medicine.

line and a change of attitude toward yourselves and your physicians. If you were more familiar with the school room you would see that it is psychology with which you are afflicted and not lack of orders.

Nor are the employers alone in the dark in understanding their complaint. The people they employ and who are dependent upon wages for their daily bread fail to see how they can earn money when there is no work for them to do. They still refuse to believe that new thought can create employment or abolish hunger, or how they "can rationally live, worship, or love their neighbors on an empty stomach." Having asked for bread and been given a stone, they refuse to be satisfied with the philosophy of the college. They know that steady work at remunerative wages alone will cure their state of mind. This the President cannot give them without he changes his attitude toward business.—Nashua Telegraph.

PEOPLES' OPINION

The Halifax Trip

Editor Herald:—It is understood that several of the firemen of this city, both active and veterans are arranging to make the trip to Halifax to attend the big muster there in August.

Some members of the party that will visit the provinces believe that they should go together, but as usual there is feeling enough to offset such. As one of the regulars I would suggest that if the veterans do not care to join the others in the trip down east by rail, they should charter a schooner for the voyage, take on all the red shirts the vessel would hold, arrange for several fish chowders on the way down, and if room can be found, they might put the hand tub Bunka aboard and indulge in lots of exercise throwing salt water into the air, thus enabling them to maintain their record by squirting on the briny deep. They could give an exhibition with the famous tub when they arrive at Halifax which would be a drawing card for the occasion.

AMERICAN PEACE PLAN SUBMITTED

came known that the differences in the two plans are slight. A full conference of all delegates and mediators is planned for tomorrow or Wednesday. This is for the formal consideration and final drafting of the protocol.

Although the question of whether the Antilla would be permitted to land her ammunition at the Constitutionalist port of Tampico was not finally disposed of today, the Mexican delegates let it be known that while they hoped the cargo in some way would be returned to New York they were not disposed to interrupt mediation even if the ammunition finally got ashore. General Huerta's order regarding the blockade infused a spirit of optimism everywhere, for the situation yesterday was threatening. Tonight that word was awaited from the American government as to whether the Antilla would be permitted to land her arms.

Washington already has decreed an embargo both by land and sea against the shipment of arms from the United States to Mexico so that cases similar to the Antilla cannot arise again, even though the American government finds it impossible to dissuade the ship owners from landing the cargo or decides that it cannot interfere with a shipment which cleared properly from an American port.

In any event the Mexican delegates are optimistic. They are assuming that the American government will deal with the Constitutionalist if the latter do not come into the negotiations immediately.

It is known authoritatively that the original terms set by the mediators for Constitutional participation—the declaration of an armistice, the broadening of the scope of discussion from the international to internal questions—still are not acceptable to the Constitutionalist.

It is understood that a diplomatic way of approaching internal questions would meet the approval of the Constitutionalist, but the mediators are insistent on the armistice. The Constitutionalist want to know what the peace plans comprehends before they agree to a suspension of hostilities. They claim that when a revolution is once started in a comprehensive mil-

CURRENT OPINION

Permanent Trouble In Mexico Unless United States Sends Army There.

It is either intervention or continued trouble south of the Rio Grande. The situation has reached such a stage that it is an absolute necessity that the United States send troops into the country to restore peace, and I think that there is no other way that peace can be restored and the lives and property of Americans and citizens of European countries be protected.

There is only one way that peace can be restored in Mexico, and that is for the United States to send an army into the republic, eliminate Huerta, install a strong Mexican at the head of it and then order the factions to keep hands off and back up the injunction with the American army and navy. Then, and then only, will the Mexicans develop into a real nation, with a national sense of honor, and not until then will the revolutions cease. Unless the United States does this there will be permanent trouble in Mexico.—By F. J. Splitstone, Managing Editor of Leslie's Weekly.

lary campaign it cannot be stopped for a week or a short period without making troops restless and endangering the control which the various chiefs have over their men.

The mediators now are trying to evolve a method by which the peace plans will meet the approval of the Constitutionalist before a protocol is signed, although the American government may conduct the negotiations with the Constitutionalist.

While details of the peace plans are necessarily withheld until there is a final agreement, it is known that a large share in the provisional government will be given to the Constitutionalist.

The play-calls for the establishment of a new provisional government at the head of which shall be a neutral person, with a cabinet of four persons representing the varied political interests in Mexico.

The government would be brought into power by Constitutional succession when General Huerta appointed as minister of foreign relations the man agreed upon here for the provisional presidency.

No other internal questions are included in the peace plan as recommendations and suggestions of a general character with reference to agrarian and educational reforms are phased in such a way as to constitute advice rather than dictation. The plan includes provision for general amnesty, the payment of claims, the withdrawal of the American forces from Vera Cruz and kindred subjects which would develop when General Huerta retired and new provisional government was installed.

The new provisional president would name his own cabinet, but men virtually selected here would be chosen by him. Constitutionalist would have a voice in the formation of this cabinet as at least two of their party would be named. The new government would be given formal recognition by the United States and thus enabled to float loans and rehabilitate Mexico's finances. Already there is talk of a $100,000,000 loan to cover the multitude of obligations arising out of 4 years of almost incessant revolution. Final approval and the signing of any protocol will be withheld by the American government until absolutely assured that the Constitutionalist will accept it.

Three men, a Frenchman a German and an Englishman, were travelling together. While journeying they argued as to which country had the fairest railway. The Frenchman began to tell them that while travelling by the express from Paris to Madrid they passed the telegraph poles so quickly that you would think you were passing through a thick forest.

The German said: "Oh, that's nothing! Try our electric train from Berlin to Marlenwerder you pass telegraph poles so quickly you would think you were passing a churchyard."

Then the Englishman said: "You can't beat us. Our express from Paddington, London to Snow Hill, Birmingham, is surely the quickest. For instance, last Wednesday a porter at Paddington and the engine driver of the express had quarrelled. Just as the train started the engine driver went to slap the porter across the face. He swung his arm out and hit a porter at Snow Hill, Birmingham." Till this

HUERTA DECLARES THE BLOCKADE OF TAMPICO OFF

Announces a Withdrawal of Orders to Mexican Gunboats.

Mexico City, June 8.—The Mexican Government today decided to suspend the blockade of Tampico, which had been ordered.

This step was taken upon the Government learning that the mediators at Niagara Falls were taking some action in regard to the movements of the steamship Antilla, reported to have sailed from an American port with arms for the Constitutionalists, and also to prevent a setback in the peace negotiations.

It was officially stated that the Mexican Government in ordering the blockade of Tampico had had no intention of interfering with commercial traffic. Its intention was only to prevent the Constitutionalists from receiving arms and ammunition.

OFFICIAL NOTIFICATION

That Gen. Huerta Has Decided Not to Blockade Tampico and Thus Possibly Disrupt Mediation.

Washington, June 8.—Huerta has decided, after all, not to blockade Tampico and force the hand of the United States, with the possibility of disrupting the mediation proceedings at Niagara Falls. Mr. Huerta, the Spanish Ambassador, notified Sec. Bryan officially to that effect today.

Thus the latest crisis in the Mexican situation, fraught with possibilities of renewed hostilities between Huerta and the United States, passed over.

What motivated Huerta in backing down does not appear in the official views which reached Washington. The official reports that the dictator had decided at the last moment to rescind his order of blockade had reached official sources which have been in very close touch with the situation about the same time that Mr. Huerta was notifying Sec. Bryan. Instantly there was an evidence of relief at the decision of the last three days along the line of official circles.

Gunboats Approaching Tampico.
No early action, whatever, came from Rear Admiral Badger.

Two of Huerta's gunboats are expected to arrive today at Tampico. When they left Puerto Mexico they were under orders to blockade the port and seize a war cargo on the Cuban merchantman Antilla, consigned to the Constitutionalists.

Sec. Daniels' statement that "there has been no change in the policy of the Government in reference to its decision that the port of Tampico shall be open to all commerce" aroused widespread discussion. However, whether all commerce means contraband of war or Administration officials would discuss.

It was understood that the Administration took the position that it might prevent exercise of a blockade by a government that is not recognized as possessing such authority under international law.

The Huerta gunboats were expected to reach Tampico early today. It did not seem probable that any actual crisis would be precipitated before the arrival of the Antilla tomorrow or Wednesday.

Rear Admiral Mayo has transferred his flag to the battleship Minnesota, outside Tampico Harbor, and the Constitutionalists there were preparing to resist any attack on the port by the Huerta gunboats. In the wake of Huerta's ships are the American cruisers Tacoma and the gunboat Sacramento, with men and armament infinitely superior to that of the Federal men-of-war.

Gen. Carranza's answer to the last note of the South American envoys is not unexpected to reach here until Tuesday. Then it will be forwarded to the mediators, and probably a day or two longer will elapse before it is made public.

Mediators Influenced Huerta

There were broad intimations here that the influence which had caused Huerta to rescind his order had gone to Mexico City all the way from Niagara Falls where it was said, the mediators and the Mexican delegates had been urging him in the strongest possible terms to withdraw from his position and let the mediation proceed.

It did not appear here that Huerta's change of position had been contingent upon any change of plans for the cargo at the steamship Antilla, steaming for Tampico with arms for the Constitutionalists. It had been suggested that possible pressure upon the owners of the ship might cause them to divert her.

One thing, however, was plain: President Wilson was determined that Tampico should be kept open to the commerce of the world, and the American ships under Rear Admiral Mayo were in evident readiness to enforce it.

Whether the Antilla's war cargo would have been considered as commerce, had the situation come to the point of a break, all officials here decline to say.

The gunboats Zaragoza and Bravo should have arrived at Tampico about 5 o'clock morning. Followed by the United States ships Sacramento and Tacoma, they passed Vera Cruz yesterday. The possibility that Huerta's decision not to blockade the port may have diverted them was taken into the reckoning here.

Orders to Gunboats to Return.

Gen. Huerta's dispatch requested the Spanish Ambassador to inform the American Government that the suspension of the blockade had been decreed by Huerta. That official notification would be published in the official papers tomorrow, and that orders had been given to the Mexican gunboats to return to Puerto Mexico.

Gen. Huerta's action in calling off the blockade was inspired, it was stated by a sincere desire not to jeopardize the success of mediation.

In diplomatic circles Huerta's action is regarded as conclusive evidence that he has placed the fate of his Government and the settlement of the Mexican problem fully in the hands of the South American mediators and his representatives at Niagara Falls.

POSTAGE STAMP PRESS

Until quite recently the operation of printing postage stamps was a rather slow and slow task, the impressions being made in the round way followed where printing is done from steel plates. Not only this, but the stamps being printed in small sheets a great deal of clerical work was necessary to keep account of the various sheets. The situation has been greatly simplified recently by the installation of a machine designed by Benjamin R. Stebbins, an attaché of the bureau of engraving and printing which prints the stamps on a continuous roll at a rate of 12,000 per minute.

At the back of the printing cylinder is the inking foot, below which are metal fingers covering a space about 8 inches wide and extending the full length of the cylinder. The fingers vibrate lengthwise on the cylinder. A wiping belt vibrates with the fingers, but at the same time moves forward wiping the surface of the cylinder as clean as if the work were done by hand.

The fact that this machine makes use of the paper without wetting is an other important consideration, for it was originally necessary to moisten the paper before endeavoring to secure the impressions for the reason that it was impossible to secure sufficient power to force the dry paper into the engraved lines of the steel plates. The ink from the plates which is taken up by the paper is dried out in a short time by passing over curved plates passing around the roller machine, which is maintained by just the right temperature by electricity.

Everett Townsend of Providence, R. I., is the guest of friends in this city.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take a Glas of Salts to Flush Out Your Kidnes and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation, and is very profuse; again there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders, caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia water drink which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

WESTERN LIFE

Not Much As It Was in Days Gone By

Despite the regrets of the sentimentalist and the lovers of the strenuous literature of the frontier, the romance of the Old West is giving way to the more peaceful respectability and reality of the New West. Moving bands of wild Indians no longer attack the prairie schooner, caravans of the pioneers and the outlaws who formerly held up the Deadwood coach have adapted the more specific method of dynamiting the express car on the railroad.

Nevertheless there is still something invigorating in the life of the ranch and the prairie. The cowboy no longer considers it necessary to shoot in the town in order to qualify for the best cow range society and in recent years a tenderfoot has even been known to wear a silk hat on a ranch without incurring the marksmanship of the crack shots among the cowpunchers; but Ranchland is a distinctive country and its inhabitants still have peculiarities that are essentially and picturesquely their own.

Ranchland is exceedingly self-contained. It has its own recognized society, it has provincial ideas of what constitutes good fellowship. It has a code of ethics that is peculiar to its kind and it makes its own fashions more or less adopted from the Mexican ideal, but having in view utility, comfort and sensuousness displayed. The essential features of cowboy and cowgirl fashion are the wide brim high crown felt hat, the high heel, short vamp boots, the loosely knickerbockered, and with the cowboys the chaps, which in ranch vernacular has been abbreviated into chaps, the wool leggings worn in cowpunching.

This ranch vernacular is also peculiar to itself. Sometimes it is based on abbreviations of Spanish words, sometimes on corruptions of English words or expressions that have become idioms. In the vernacular of the range a "hell cat" is a yearling that has escaped branding or being ear marked, and the name "maverick" came into use from the actions of a pair of rustlers, Jim and Joe Maverick who had a weakness for stealing those unmarked yearlings. The spring roundup when the young cattle are branded is a "rodeo" or a cattle drive. "Vaquero" is the Spanish name for cowboy. A "buckaroo" is a graduate of the ranch who has reached the dignity of a broncho buster. A bronk is a native or Mexican horse of small size; "Cayuse" is the range name for an Indian pony. An "outlaw" is a horse that cannot be successfully broken to saddle or harness.

"Pulling leather" is a term applied to the grabbing of any part of a saddle when trying to ride a buck. This is considered extremely bad form, and the rider who does it may be disqualified in a broncho busting contest. "Choking the horn," "squeezing lizards," "grabbing the post," and "holding the pug handle" mean the same thing in ranch vernacular as "pulling leather." "Riding sloppy" is a term applied to riders who sit loosely in the saddle and allow the body to sway with the movements of the horse. This is also bad form. Close seat, a seat which is steady and firm is what the cowboy strives for. When a rider leaves the saddle at each bound of his horse, so that rider can see between rider and saddle is called "seeing daylight." There are scores of other words and expressions peculiar to the range, and they are utilized with the same alacrity that the fast side gangster uses his often unintelligible argot.

While the Western cities do not know so much of the cowboy and his life as in the old days largely because he now goes to town by train or trolley instead of on a bronk, and also because he sometimes defers to fashion to the extent of substituting a derby for a sombrero, out on the ranch life is pretty much the same as it always has been.

Life there is still strenuous and very close to nature. Ranchland has its own particular and peculiar amusements. It goes without saying that they are usually superstitious, and it is the right of the cowpuncher to initiate the tenderfoot into the mysteries of ranch life and vice versa the newcomer who resents it. Life for him would be a howling wilderness. The tenderfoot who can't stand the gam will soon disappear, but it doesn't take a good sport long to get into the good graces of the gang, and to be accepted on an equal footing.

After all, fearlessness and the ability to ride wild horses are the best passports into Ranchland even today. No horse is too much of an outlaw for a real cowboy to ride. No herd of cattle is too wild for him to attempt to drive or corral. A stampede calls out all the daring that is in him. A "sunbaking" broncho, the kind that in addition to jumping into the air, tries to twist the rider off his back is the cowboy's delight.

There are no tango teas out on the ranch. Of course there are dances for dancing is an amusement that is equally enjoyed by the cowboy and cowgirls, but it is the old fashioned round and square dances that are in favor.

In recent years there has been a tendency among the shows to intermingle circus features with the exhibition of the cowboys and his fellow Ranchlanders, and this has naturally created the impression that the cowboy seen by the public is a cowpuncher for exhibition purposes only. This is unfair and not justified by the facts. Those who profess to know say that the genuine cowboy never becomes a showman. The real cowpuncher is a real ranchman at every stage of the game. The sombrero, the high heeled boots and neckerchief are not donned merely for exhibition purposes. It is the costume he wears on the ranch. The handkerchief worn with the knot at the side of his back is more than an ornament it is a protection for the lower side of the face from wind and rain and sandstorms, and it is worn loosely so that the chin may be dropped into it without using the hands. Nearly everything in the cowboy's costume has a similar utility.

The same is true of the cowgirl. Being a woman she has the natural desire of her sex to look nice. It is inevitable that this should be evinced in her clothing. While she temporarily forsakes the ranch and becomes a performer in a show there is simply a little increased cost in the material or a little extra ornamentation. The leatherskin or calfskin dress, the bead trimmings the high protecting boots,

THE NEW HAVEN AGREES TO GOV. WALSH'S PLAN

Boston, June 8.—The directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company have agreed to a plan proposed by Governor Walsh for the separation of the Boston and Maine railroad from the New Haven system, Chairman Elliott of the New Haven company told the legislative committee on railroads today.

Mr. Elliott recommended the enactment of legislation necessary to permit the sale to a board of trustees of the Boston and Maine stock now held for the New Haven company by the Boston Railroad Holding company. He said that although the New Haven directors did not consider the proposed action entirely just or necessary, they had consented to the agreement proposed by the department of justice and to Governor Walsh's plan of disposing of the Boston and Maine holdings in order to avoid an extended controversy with the department and also in the interest of the 60,000 stockholders and 90,000 employees, as well as the general welfare of New England.

LA TENA'S BIG WILD ANIMAL CIRCUS COMING TO VISIT US.

With everything newly furnished up and just from their spacious winter quarters, La Tena's Big Three Ring Animal Circus will pitch their mammoth, waterproof tents here on Wednesday afternoon and evening, June 10. Many exclusive feature acts have been secured and the three arenas will be constantly filled all the time with the performances of rare wild animals and scores of male and female artists, who will vie with each other in acts of skill in mid-air, on flying steeds and giving an exhibition seldom equaled.

Among the splendid displays to be witnessed are: Paul Allen's jubilee performing elephants, Carl Bachman's trained bears, Marguerite and her den of highly educated Nubian lions, Captain Wesley's school of sea lion equilibrists, Blanche Reed and Herman Briggs in their novel bareback riding act, the Albert Powell troupe of high wire experts, five in number, and many others that are equally as prominent in the arctic world.

There is a congress of merry old fellows and many laugh provoking stunts have been prepared to excite the sensibilities of the most sedate. The grand free street parade that is given will attract unusual attention with its attired dens and elephants, and let it be known far and wide that the show "that is different" will have all open cages, so that those who are unfortunate enough not to have a chance to witness the big show will see these wild and strange beasts just as they were in the native jungles. See the street parade and let that tell the tale as to the real worth of La Tena's Big Three Ring Wild Animal Circus.
